U. S. PROBATION OFFICER SUMMARY

On June 11, 2018, Honorable Judge Clark Waddoups in the District of Utah sentenced Robert Anthony Castro to 66 months in custody for three (3) counts of Hobbs Act Robbery, followed by a 36-month term of supervised release. On February 16, 2023, Castro began supervision in the District of Nevada following an approved transfer of supervision request by the U.S. Probation Office in the District of Utah.

The special conditions imposed include: substance abuse treatment, drug/alcohol testing, mental health treatment, access to all financial information, must not transfer/sell/give away assets valued more than $500 without U.S. Probation approval, apply all money revied from taxes, etc. to court-ordered financial obligations, placed on treasury offset program, notify USPO of any change in economic circumstances, and no contact/material/tattoos/clothing associated with gangs.

RE: Robert Anthony Castro

Rev. June 2014

On April 25, 2023, Honorable Judge Clark Waddoups signed the initiating order transferring jurisdiction of Castro's case out of the District of Utah pending acceptance in the District of Nevada.

Since beginning supervision with the US Probation office in the District of Nevada, Castro has been compliant with all terms of supervised release and lives with his in-laws and biological children in Fallon, NV where he is becoming an integral figure for his children. He has enrolled in treatment with New Frontier, provides consistently negative UA tests for the US probation office, as well as being compliant with all other conditions and checking in with his US probation officer. The US probation office requests that jurisdiction be accepted due to the positive influences he has in Nevada and his familial ties that have the potential to aid him in having a successful term of supervised release.
